PERRY'S.

The Bedwear Department is on the second floor now-where the Upholsteries used to be. Nearer to you. And, don't you know, we believe this season we have managed to bring the prices nearer to you, too. For same old-fashioned good qualities. We never attempt to tinker the price if it is going to affect the values. Our reputation is built of quality—not cheapness—that is why all these years this store has stood so firmly in popular favor. That is why the "Greater Store" succeeds to the greater appreciation of all the people.

Another thing the move did was to increase the variety. Complete now with the better and best in Blankets-Spreads -Comforts and the other agents of couch convenience.

Today and this evening promise to be notable occasions in the history of the Chevy Chase Club. At 9 a.m. the club hounds met at Plyer's post office. Mr. George Dunn, master of the hounds, has provided the program for the day. This evening is to be given the club's annual hunt ball. Besides the usual followers of the Chevy Chase pack a numerous and fashionable contingent from out-of-town clubs will be present, with their pink coats and high-bred hunters. The hunt ball will be a conspicuously fashionable event. Guests are expected from Baltimore, Philiadelphia and New York. The reception committee will consist of Mrs. Ffoulke, wife of Mr. Charles M. Ffoulke, president of the club; Mrs. Dunn, wife of Mr. George Dunn, master of the hounds; Lady Pauncefote, Mrs. Henry May, Mrs. Sheridan, Mrs. Hearst and Mrs. Hitt. The guests will be presented by Mr. Henry M. Earle, assisted by Mr. George Howard. The room has been handsomely and tastefully decorated, under the direction of Mr. William Marrow. Bunting of red and black, the club colors, electric lights, flowers, plants, bridles, saddles, spurs and other trophies of the hunt have been employed in the way of decorations and ornaments. There will be general dancing until 12:30 a.m., when a supper will be served. Afterward will follow a cotillion, to be led by Mr. Dunn, assisted by Mr. Howard. The favors for the cotilion are rich and appropriate. The house committee has made arrangements for special cars to and from the city. With a view to the protection of ladies' gowns, the floors of the cars are to be covered with white cloth.
